

Leonardo da Vinci's Horse

Sculpture Dedication Ceremony

Downtown Sheridan Association Building, Sheridan, Wyoming

Thursday, Aug. 20, 2015, 5 p.m. Mountain Time

Live Video Broadcast Available at davincisciencecenter.org/live

The legacy of Leonardo da Vinci's Horse - an epic bronze sculpture that was more than five centuries in the making - extends to the American western frontier with placement of a new eight-foot-tall replica in Sheridan, Wyoming.

Leonardo da Vinci died in 1519 without realizing his cutting-edge vision for a 24-foot-tall bronze horse sculpture in Italy. Leonardo da Vinci's Horse, Inc. (LDVHI) - a nonprofit organization founded by the late Charles C. Dent in Allentown, Pa. - actualized that vision on Sept. 10, 1999, by placing a 24-foot-tall bronze horse in Milan, Italy, based on Leonardo's design.

Order of Events

- Welcome: Kim Love, Sheridan Media
- Greetings from Sheridan, Wyoming: John Heath, Mayor
- Sponsor Recognition: Lin Erickson, Da Vinci Science Center, Allentown, Penna.
- Artist and Fabricator Recognition: Lin Erickson
- Introduction of Speaker: Lin Erickson
- Leonardo da Vinci's Horse: Comments by Peter Dent, former President, CEO, and Trustee of Leonardo da Vinci's Horse, Inc. (LDVHI) and former Chairman, Da Vinci Science Center Board of Trustees
- Sculpture Unveiling

Leonardo da Vinci's Horse in Wyoming

- Sculptor: Nina Akamu, Studio Equus, Rhinebeck, N.Y.
- Project Manager: Da Vinci Science Center
- Project Designer: Glasson Sculpture Works, Gardiner, N.Y.
- Foundry: Bollinger Atelier, Tempe, Ariz.

— Sponsors of Leonardo da Vinci's Horse in Sheridan, Wyoming —

